PRINCETON FAMILY CARE

Making Clinical Workflows and Hypertension Care a Top Priority

Solution

Welch Allyn® Connex® Spot Monitor

Facility Profile

Princeton Family Care is a group of board-certified physicians focused on acute care, preventative medicine and disease diagnosis. They provide easy access to specialized services such as emergency care, inpatient care, acute rehabilitation, home care and skilled nursing care, along with ambulatory surgery and fitness and wellness services.

Key Business Goals

Princeton Family Care wanted to streamline clinical workflows and improve hypertension management.

Dr. Nasir Shaikh, MD, Princeton Family Practice, notes several key areas where the Welch Allyn Connex Spot Monitor has helped Princeton Family Care.

STREAMLINED WORKFLOW

Busy clinicians at Princeton Family Care need more time to focus on direct patient care, without sacrificing accurate vital sign readings.

“The utilization of the Connex Spot Monitor has streamlined the workflow in our facility and has made it easier for us to comply with quality score reporting requirements,” says Dr. Shaikh.

HYPERTENSION CARE

Evidence suggests that manual single-reading blood pressure measurements may not be enough to identify and diagnose hypertension.¹ That’s why Princeton Family Care turned to a solution with blood pressure averaging, a method that has been shown to reduce hypertension misdiagnosis by up to 56%.²

“The blood pressure averaging functionality on this device has helped us accurately diagnose and manage our hypertensive patient population.”

“We are extremely pleased with the Welch Allyn Connex Spot Monitor.”
